

WPI

November 14, 2012

To Whom It May Concern;

It is with great pleasure that I write a letter of endorsement for Miles Washburn. His program, "Miles Ahead, How to Talk to the Non-Student," was truly impactful on our students and provided a strong message about communication skills, leadership, and personal responsibility.

After the presentation, many students stayed after to speak with him, emailed our office to thank us for having the program, and requested that he come back to campus. I am confident that the two hours spent with him, provided a lifetime of useable tips and a universal message about personal branding. Additionally, he was extremely interactive and competent in his ability to change his presentation to meet the needs and questions of the students in our session. It truly was a unique program developed and implemented for our institution.

Working with Miles several times, we have found him to be a strong presenter, with great and transferrable messages to college students. He consistently delivers on all areas that are anticipated and beyond. His friendly personality, flexibility, passion, and energy are just a few traits that fuel our need to bring him back time after time. I would strongly encourage that if anyone has the opportunity to work with Miles, that they do so. He can teach us all a few tricks.

Sincerely,

Christine Girouard

Christine Girouard
Associate Director of Student Activities
Worcester Polytechnic Institute